CITY OFFICIAL PAPER

D. E. O'KEEFE, Editor and Proprietor

For Governor,
JOHN D. FREDERICKS.

POPE BENEDICT XV.

The gloom which overshadowed the Catholic church, and in which the whole world to a degree participated, since the death of the late Holy Father Pius X, was dispelled on Thursday morning by the announcement from Rome that a new head had been selected from amongst the College of Cardinals. Owing to conditions in Europe the meeting of the Cardinals in conclave was hastened and so nearly unanimous were they in their choice from the beginning that after only four ballots Cardinal Giacomo (James) Della Chiesa, Archbishop of Bologna, was elected Pope and by his own selection will reign as Benedict XV.

Cardinal Chiesa, now Pope Benedict XV, was born in the diocese of Genoa November 21, 1854. He was ordained Priest in he year 1878. His learning and remarkable mastery of diplomacy won for him in succession several of the most important and responsible positions in the gift of the church. In 1907 he was made Archbishop of Bologna and only last May was elevated to the Cardinalate. The name of Benedict, under which he will be known, was his own choice, and it is said by those who know him that he in many ways resembles his predecessor of the same name, Benedict XIV, who was one of the greatest scholars and shrewdest statesmen that ever occupied the throne of St. Peter.

CITY COUNCIL APPROVES GAS HOLDER LOCATION

Aside from final action on the petition of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for permission to erect an extensive gas holder on their property at the corner of Washington and East Marshal streets, which has been under consideration for the past month, but little business of public interest was transacted at the adjourned meeting of the city council on Monday evening. With a full board of trustees present, considerable time was devoted to the scheduled hearing of this much mooted question, both sides of the controversy being given ample opportunity to present the cast from the view of their own particular standpoint, with a result that the P. G. $ E. were given somewhat the best of the argument.

As a preliminary round of the argumentative bout, a communication was presented from the mercantile section of the Redwood City Board of Trade strongly endorsing the object of the petition and strongly urging that the petition of the gas company be granted, making the plea that the location of the strucure proposed in this city would prove a decided commercial benefit to the city. When Chairman Merrill announced that the council was ready to hear a general discussion of the subject, Manager Florence of the Redwood City district of the company, introduced E. C. Jones, chief gas engineer of the company, who at some length explained the technical aspect of the proposed construction, dwelling strongly upon the fact that conditions surrounding a container of this character rendered danger of fire or explosion from that source a practical impossibility. As an evidence that it was the intention of the gas company to make the structure as little objectionable as possible to the general appearance of the neighborhood, Mr. Jones presented a tentative plan of the structure which indicated the purpose of devoting a a considerable portion of the surrounding property to ornamentation in the way of landscape effects. Mr. Jones was followed by John A. Britton, vice-president and manager of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company, who urged the commercial advantages which would accrue to the city by the location of this work at the proposed place, which would tend to make Redwood City an important station in the distributing system of the company. He also assured the council of the readiness of the company to comply with every reasonable requirement of the authorities in the care of the surroundings of the structure.

Attorney James T. O'Keefe, the legal representative of the objectors to the structure, rather strongly urged a number of objections to the granting of the permit for the location as indicated in the petition, contending that the purchase of a small additional property by the gas company would tend to at least lessen the objections of those interested in adjacent property. While admitting that there was a minimum of hazard in the proposed structure, he strongly contended that its as proposed would result in a material lessening of the value of the neighboring property upon which homes of citizens had already been established. Replying to questions by members of the council, Mr. O'Keefe, however, admitted that the property under question was so located as to render it unavailable for any but industrial purposes. Several of the signers of the protest who were present were also questioned by the trustees along the same lines.

Following the discussion, Trustee Tuchsen stated that he had given the matter close investigation and, while it was evident that there was some force in the objections raised, he was convinced that the general benefit to result would far outweigh these. With this view of the case he offered a motion that the petition for permission to erect the proposed structure be granted, with the understanding that the surrounding grounds be kept in a condition satisfactory to the city authorities. After an assurance from Mr. Britton that this requirement would be complied with, the motion was carried by a unanimous vote of the trustees.

A petition of J. W. Tapp and C. I. Rider for permission to erect a garage on lots 9 and 10 of block 7, Hancock addition, was granted.

The ordinance fixing the annual expense budget of the city, upon which the tax levy for the coming year is to be based, was given final adoption.

Trustee Tuchsen reported that plans for a systematic method of numbering for the residences of the city were being worked out by the city engineer's office and would probably be ready for presentation at the next meeting.

Considerable time was devoted to the discussion of the ever recurring question of the means of abating the nuisance caused by the neglect of owners of property which permits the growth of weeds upon the sidewalks, with the result that a determination was reached to find some practicable means of abating the nuisacne in the immediate future. With this end in view City Attorney Mansfield was instructed to make an investigation of the laws of other municipalities and present some legal method of correcting the trouble.

Owing to the fact that next Monday, the date of the regular session, is a legal holiday, an adjournment was taken until Tuesday evening.

CAUSES OF WAR.

From Austria's declaration of hostilities against Servia the greatest war in history is in progress. The situation is this:

Austria's southeastern provinces have large Servian populations; that is, the people are Servians by race and sympathy, just as there is a population which is Mexican by race and sympathy in Southern California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas though born in the United States.

Two important Austrian provinces Bosnia and Herzegovina, originally were Servia's.

Many years ago they passed to Turkey. The war of 1878 loosened Turkey's grip. The sultan retained a nominal suzerainty, but the provinces were under Austrian supervision.

It was plain they must pass ultimately out of Turkey's hands. When this happened Servia hoped to acquire them again. A large share of their people, being Servians, wanted this to happen.

In 1908 Austria, however, suddenly annexed both provinces. This was a dreadful blow to Servian ambition, but Servia was not strong enough to resist, and Russia had not then sufficiently recovered from the effects of the war with Japan to render any aid.

Servia had another ambition. An inland country, it was compelled to trade through Austrian ports on terms unfavorable to Servian commerce. The Servians longed for a seaport. In the Balkan war they fought their way to the Adriatic. Instead of permitting them to retain a port, however, Austria organized the kingdom of Albania, shutting them in again. The Servians blamed Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the Austrian throne, for this anti-Servian policy.

At Serajevo, capital of Bosnia, June 28, Gavrie Prinzip, a Servian student, shot the archduke and his wife dead.

There is no question that for a long time past a powerful organization has been working not alone in Servia, but among the Servians in Austria as well, for the promotion of Servia's interests, which necessarily meant to the detriment of Austria's.

Austria charged that this organization inspired Francis Ferdinand's assassination.

The substance of its demand on Servia was that the persons said to have been implicated in the assassination plot be punished and that the pan-Servian organization be suppressed.

Servia did not answer as Austria desired, and the latter declared war. The Servians are of the same race as the Russians.

Both from radical reasons, from political motives growing out of Servia's geographical position and because Russia is jealous of Austria, the czar is Servia's friend and protector.

Servia could not fight Austria alone.

Germany is Austria's ally, and its interests are so interwoven with Austria's interests that an Austrian success or reverse would be correspondingly a success or a reverse for Germany.

France is Russia's ally. It is, besides, Germany's hereditary enemy, and it longs to recover Alsace-Lorraine, wrested from it by Germany as a result of the Franco-Prussian war. Finally, it could not afford to see Germany achieve such continental power as it would be defeating Russia. Left to itself, Germany probably would have been more than a match for the Russians.

England is allied with France and Russia. Its relations with Germany, too, have long been strained. Germany has long sought to become a colonial power. England had the best colonies all preempted. Germany resented this. England in turn, resented Germany's concentration of a powerful fleet, feeling that it threatened England's domination of the sea. The war having involved Germany, Austria, Russia and France, it was a foregone conclusion that England would enter the struggle on the Russian and French side.

BURLINGAME WOMEN WILL HOLD STREET CARNIVAL.

This Saturday afternoon and evening, Burlingame will be a fairyland of flowers, gayly decked booths, charming women and happy children. The Burlingame Woman's Club having given successfully four street fairs, this will be their fifth attempt, and in order to make it a great success, nothing has been forgotten or neglected. The tastes of all will be catered to, from the Chinese tea garden to the Spanish dinner to be served in the clubhouse from six to eight o'clock. Those who want a jolly good time are invited to bring their families and friends.

A band of music will play both afternoon and evening, and from nine to twelve an orchestra will play in the club house for dancing. Mrs. F. Phol, Mrs. George Reardon and Mrs. U. S. C. Clifford have charge of the dance.

Other well-known ladies of Burlingame will be in charge of the booths and every effort will be made to give the public a most enjoyable afternoon and evening.

Judge Fitzpatrick leaves tomorrow for Bartlett springs to spend two weeks.

LABOR LEADER OPPOSES UNIVERSAL 8-HOUR BILL

Organizer of First Federation Warns Workers of Dangers Threatening Them

Frank Roney, a venerable labor leader, opposes the Universal Eight-Hour Bill.

In a communication to the Farmers' Protective League of California he writes:

"Your informant is correct when he told you I took an active part in the founding of the Trades Union movement in California.

"The Trades and Labor Assembly of San Francisco was called into existence by a resolution I proposed in the first convention held of the Workingmen's Party of California. I participated in its organization and a few years after became its president. Prior to that I organized the Seaman's Protective Association in the hope of reducing the wrongs inflicted upon deep-sea sailors and to improve the conditions of those engaged in the coastwise trade. I organized first the Iron Trades Council of San Francisco, and a year later the Federated Trades Council, the immediate predecessor of the present Labor Council in San Francisco. During all these activities I entertained the hope of steadily improving the condition of the workingmen, and as I sought no political honors nor reecived any pecuniary benefits in acknowledgment of my labors, I simply aimed at impressing upon those organized the exercise of wise and careful judgment in their bearing toward employers and that individual self-sacrifice on the part of each of his time and means was imperative to accomplish their desires.

"Among the conditions advocated was a shortening of the working day. I was not an advocate at any time for the establishment of an arbitrary standard for a day's labor. I believed then and do now believe a fixed time for daily employment to be in contravention of the simplest rules governing production and the distribution of its results.

"I know nothing about the country or the farmer's methods. Like most men born and brought up in large cities, I considered the farmer a man occupying a most enviable position. His employment seemed to me to be more like an amusement than the brain and muscle-wrecking pursuits prevailing in cities. I certainly believed the farmer's life to be an ideal one, unaffected by the competition and worriments incident to urban life. About six or seven years ago I learned for the first time something of the conditions that beset the farmer in his capacity as a food producer. I learned that his life, instead of being a bed of roses, was one of anxiety and worriment almost the entire year.

"The chief obstacle he had to contend with was an insufficient supply of efficient help. Now comes the proposition to limit the working day in the country to eight hours. If a scarcity of labor existed before, surely it will be intensified if such an amendment to the Penal Code becomes effective.

"If the losses to the farmers and horticulturists at present are so great, as they undoubtedly are from their inability to harvest and market all the crops raised at present, they will be enormously increased if Amendment No. 3 is adopted. Should this happen, the already high cost of living will be considerably increased. Farm products will soar so high that it will be impossible for the ordinary person to live. If the proposed amendment was offered in a spirit of equity imposing no injustice on the farmer and intended as an aid to lessen, the excessive cost of the necessities of life, no objection could conscientiously be made against it.

"As it is framed it appears to me to be intended to limit the production of all farm products and relatively to increase the cost of living. The products of the farm, unlike the products of the factory and workshop, are subject to the variations of the weather and largely dependent upon these fluctuations for their abundance or scarcity. There is a period in the growth of all crops which compels their immediate harvesting or waste and consequent loss is sure to follow.

"Government regulation of labor is obnoxious to the average laborer in town or city. He desires to dispense with the operations of government in his workday and domestic life. The individualist, essentially American, believes in less government regulation and interference in the ordinary affairs of life and therefore of the promotion of greater proportional happiness and peace to all.

"If the proposed eight-hour law permitted overtime no sane or fair-minded farmer could raise any reasonable objection to it. Crops, whether fruit or vegetable, must be harvested at the exact time for shipment to distant markets. If that time passes and the work is not done the remainder of the crop is either lost entirely or its market value is so reduced as to hardly pay for the cost of shipping a doubtful article. If the law permitted the continuance of work on an overtime schedule the crop could be saved and the final cost to the consumer kept within reasonable limitations.

"We who believe in an eight-hour workday limitation must seriously pause and consider all the sides and features of this law, its injuries, the injustices it will work and the advantages it will confer on all concerned, if any, and then as a sensible people, believing in the future development and greatness of our state, vote against it decisively."

UNUSUAL DEMAND FOR GAS AND ELECTRIC STOCK

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company announces that, having secured subscriptions for more than 70 per cent of its issue of $12,500,000, of new First Preferred Stock, the financial plan outlined in letter to stockholders dated June 3d, 1914, was declared operative at a meeting of the Board of Directors August 15th. The subscriptions which exceed $8,750,000, were received from approximately 3000 subscribers of whom a great proportion are new stockholders, in fact, the company has succeeded in almost doubling its stockholders since the end of the last fiscal year.

In view of the disturbed financial conditions, brought about by the European war, and to avoid unnecessary hardship upon subscribers the company, through its Board of Directors, has deferred the time of payment of the second installment of $15 per share from August 15th to October 15th; of the third installment of $12.50 per share from October 1st to November 15th and of the fourth installment of $12.50 per share from January 1st to January 15th, 1915. Following is therefore the revised schedule of installments payments on the basis of the sale price of $82.50 per share authorized by the State Railroad Commission.

$5 per share with subscription.

$15 per share on or before October 15, 1914.

$12.50 per share on or before November 15, 1914.

$12.50 per share on or before January 15, 1915.

$12.50 per share on or before April 1, 1915.

$12.50 per share on or before July 1, 1915.

$12.50 per share on or before October 1, 1915.

As an unusually large number of the subscribers have either paid for their stock in full or have signified their intention of completing the full payment upon allotment, the company is expediting as much as possible the engraving and printing of permanent stock certificates. The fact that so many subscribers are paying for their stock in full instead of availing themselves of the installment privilege is due to the fact that the full paid certificates net 7.2 per cent per annum on the investment, whereas only 6 per cent is paid on installment payments.

DEER SEASON CLOSES IN SAN MATEO COUNTY

The open season for hunting antlered bucks in game districts 2, 4 and 5, which include San Mateo county, closed one-half hour after sunset Monday night. The sport is still open in districts 1 and 3, embracing the northern counties and the Sierra range of eastern central California.

A party of Redwood City nimrods, including District Attorney Swart, Henry Beeger and Dave Flynn, returned from a final hunt in the hills above Halfmoon Bay. They bagged one three-point buck. Constable Fred Simmons of Halfmoon Bay also bagged one.

Local hunters who have gone after rabbits recently in the foothills back of Purissima have found the cottontails numerous enough to make the trip worth while. Farther south, back of Lobitus and Tunitas, rabbits are reported to be plentiful.

HAPPY LA HONDA

Camping Season is Nearly Over But La Honda Still Busy

LA HONDA, September 2—With two fine bridges being built on the south and a good section of the new boulevard under way on the north of us, employing many men and teams, La Honda looks by no means like a "deserted village" as stated in another Redwood City paper last week. Many people are here and Sunday brought many auto parties from the city. Admission day promises to be lively with us, too.

Times must be prosperous with Al. Weatherbee. His new passenger and freight truck, connecting Redwood and La Honda, is a perfect beauty and he is as proud of it as a kid with a new pair of pants.

County Assessor C. D. Hayward and R. F. Chilcott of Redwood were here yesterday. Mr. Haywary is having built a comfortable cottage on property he purchased at La Honda from the University Realty Company.

In the primary election there were 53 votes cast here, 43 being Republican, 7 Democrat, 2 Socialist and 1 non-partisan.

Charles Krill, a businessman of San Francisco; Joseph Lavellia, John Kenny and Joseph Swanson, all the latter of the Goldberg Bowen Company, are having the times of their lives at their merry camp. Their shell fish dinners are delicious.

Frank Towne, cashier of the First National Bank of Redwood; Charles Cavalli, Ed. Bartley of Mayfield and Joe Cull of Menlo Park, had a good day's sport deer hunting the early part of the week, returning with a good fat buck.

J. J. Fehrn and wife of Redwood, who have been camping here for the past three months say that they will stay here until the very last moment—until winter drives them away.

JOHN McKAY MAY CONTEST SUPERVISOR NOMINATION.

Announcement has been made that John McKay of San Gregorio may commence proceedings to contest the nomination of Dr. C. V. Thompson for supervisor of the Fifth district. The race for supervisor in that township was exceedingly close, the count of the election boards giving the nominations to Dr. D. E. Blackburn, the incumbent, and Dr. C. V. Thompson, with McKay only one vote behind Thompson.

The results announced by the election boards were: D. E. Blackburn 105, C. V. Thompson 103, John McKay 102, James McCormick 93, M. J. Perry 34.

Mr. McKay makes the claim that four votes that were cast for him were thrown out because the ballots were crossed with a pencil instead of the rubber stamp. The voters who cast those ballots have admitted making the mistake but they will advance as a reason their inexperience and the fact that they were not instructed by the ballot clerk to use the rubber stamp, as the law requires they should be.

VISITING EASTERN EDITOR PRAISES PRESIDENT WILSON

B. A. Shaver, a Minnesota newspaperman who is looking for a location in California, spent Monday in this city. After an inspection of the coast from Washington to the Mexican line, Mr. Shaver is convinced of the great possibilities of this part of the State. The splendid roads and palatial residences were a revelation to him, as well as the exceptionally fine climate.

"Polished Pebbles," Next Opera

The highschool announces that it will produce on November 6th and 7th, Mr. Carrington's new original operetta entitled "Polished Pebbles."' His former success with the "Windmills of Holland" pleased so many people that it has been decided to give two nights' performance. "Polished Pebbles" promises to be even more popular than the "Windmills of Holland." It has catchy, popular music and the tunes will soon be heard around Redwood City.

Brown Goes to the Springs.

Supervisor William H. Brown of San Mateo, by way of a rest from his recent political battle which resulted in his almost unanimous re-election to the Supervisorship, departed Monday for a brief vacation at Agua Caliente Springs. He will return to attend the meeting of the board next Tuesday.

Look Out for Fire.

The insurance companies have issued a warning to the public to exercise great care in the prevention of fire. At this time, with the stock exchanges closed, it would be impossible to meet large losses promptly and the results would be serious to the country.

Students Elect Officers

At a recent meeting of the student body of Sequoia highschool, the following officers were elected: President, Robert O'Connell; vice-president, Susie Bridgewater; secretary, Lorraine Dickey; treasurer, B. E. Myers.

The enrollment at the grammar school continues to increase. Next week the school will be closed as the teachers go to Mount Hermon for the annual teachers' institute.

COLMA INFORMATION

Bold Robbery of Colma Hall Saloon Sunday Morning.

COLMA, Sept. 3—Last Sunday morning the absorbing topic of conversation was of the sensational hold-up of the Colma Hall saloon. It happened at about 1 o'clock of the Sabbath. The Happy-Go-Luckies were just concluding one of their famous dances upstairs. There were about a score of people in the saloon. Nearly all the spending money of the whole crowd had found its way into the cash register. Three men entered the saloon with guns in their hands. They created consternation by calling out menacingly, "all hands up." They went up immediately. Then they were ordered to get busy and line up against the wall. They did that, too, without hesitation. When they were all lined up in good order, one of the bold operators tapped the till, taking therefrom $141. While the till was being rifled, Antone Sturla, who had a purse well filled with gold in his pocket, decided to take a chance. He fled from his place in the line against the wall, through the back door of the saloon, thinking to escape out the side door of the hall, which he had no sooner reached than he saw another man with a pistol and heard a vicious voice cry out, "None of that, old boy." Toney turned and fled up the stairs, leading to the ballroom, with such recklessness, that he fell, barking his knees seriously and was obliged to crawl up the last few steps. Fortunately the man at the side door did not follow or molest him in any way. In some way Geo. Krehl and Thomas Callan who were in the banquet hall learned of what was happening. The latter, who was armed, displayed his presence of mind by jumping out the banquet hall window, no doubt fully determined to make a flank attack upon the enemy. George Krehl, curious to see what was going on, decided to peek through the banquet hall door. He had no sooner done so than a pistol was poked into his breast, making him feel quite willing to obey any command that might be given. He was spoken to in a friendly way, being told that nothing would be taken from anyone except what was in the cash register and the hold-up people would go up the road toward Daly City and that the boys could follow them, if they wanted to, but they had better not. When they had gone up the hill, Thomas Callan fired a shot after them and they fired back, but no blood was shed. Someone went into Supervisor Casey's house and telephoned to the officers of Daly City. A couple of them came down to met the robbers and came nearly nabbing two of them but through the determined use of their pistols they got away. This was the nerviest robbery ever perpetrated in this town. Now, Officers Mansfield and Sheehan have an excellent opportunity. The one that captures the outlaws gets the votes of Colma.

New Catholic Club Building at San Mateo

September 9, 1914, will be memorable in the Catholic annals of the peninsula. Archbishop P. W. Riordan will on that day bless the corner stone of the new home of the Knights of Columbus and inaugurate the work of the San Mateo Catholic Club.

Automobile parties from San Francisco will assemble at the Knights of Columbus building prior to 12:45 p. m., September 9. Special trains have been engaged by the San Francisco Councils, which will leave there about 1:30 o'clock in afternoon, arriving at San Mateo at 2 o'clock when a parade will be formed to the site of the San Mateo Catholic Club.

With the idea of securing the greatest benefit from this new building, and in keeping with the established policy of the Order to educate and aid our Catholic citizenship, and extend its influence to zones beyond its immediate membership, the council has determined that its building shall be known as the "San Mateo Catholic Club," and that it shall be the center of Catholic social activity and a focal point of all Catholic endeavor. Every inducement will be made to Catholic young men and women to make the utmost use of the splendid facilities for their advancement and general welfare.

When completed the structure will represent an investment of approximately $50,000. In advance of the Admission Day celebration, the San Mateo Knights will hold a festival on September 7, Labor Day, and September 8.

The election of the new Pope, Benedict XV and his coronation will be solemnly celebrated in the Church of the Nativity, Menlo Park, at next Sunday at 10:30 o'clock. There will be Solemn High Mass, a sermon appropriate to the occasion, the "Te Deum," or chant of thankskiving and solemn benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

At the regular monthly meeting of the St. Elizabeth's Sewing Society of the parish Church of the Nativity, Menlo Park held last Wednesday afternoon, the final accounting of the returns on both the Push Cart Fair and the Corhival-Bazaar was had. The report showed the Push-Cart Fair held on the afternoon of Saturday, Aug. 15th in the gardens of Edward L. Eyre, netted $559.50. The ladies of the Society unnaimously voted a very sincere expression of thanks to Mrs. E. L. Eyre who so generously lent her grounds for the affair and whose indefatigable energy and devotion made such a success of it. The returns from the Carnival-Bagaar showed a net profit of $1330.95, a tidy sum that will be of substantial assistance to the parish for which the Bazaar was given. The ladies of the Society have certainly earned by their splendid work and self-sacrifice, the appreciation and gratitude of the parish at large. Her husband, the late Andrew Lawler, erected one of the first houses in town. The deceased was a charitable, unselfish, self-sacrificing woman, always first to lend her aid and assistance to those in distress and was never weary of helping others and doing good. Her many good deeds will be a monument to her memory. Those who knew her in the early days and were aware of her many sacrifices, are loudest in their praise of the virtues of the dead pioneer. The following children are left to mourn the loss of a devoted mother: Edward Lawler, Mrs. William Feeley, Mrs. James. Hoff and Mrs. Henrietta Fowle.

Last Saturday the United States Senate confirmed the appointment of George E. Meekins as postmaster at Stanford. Mr. Meekins has been in business in Palo Alto for the past three years but prior to that was a merchant in this town for a number of years. He is a trustworthy, capable and efficient man and a consistent Democrat. For years he has been one of the wheel horses of that party. In lean years and in years of victory he has always been loyal to his political faith. It is refreshing to observe a political party thus rewarding its faithful servant for usually the man who works the hardest is very often forgotten when the loaves and fishes are being passed around. Mr. Meekins' friends congratulate him on his good fortune. Mr. Meekins will at once dispose of his business in the College City and assume the duties of his new position which pays about $2500 annually.
